‘Formal and Informal Justice delivery systems’
*Dr. S. K.Kapoor

I Formal justice delivery systems

Formal Justice delivery system is one which is provided by the State as per the sanctioned of the constitution.

II Fundamentals of legal systems

Supreme Court in its recent judgment dated July 7, 2014 titled Vishwa Lochan Madan Vs. Union of India & Ors. in Writ Petition (Civil) no 386 of 2005 has accepted following fundamental features of legal system.

1. Power to adjudicate must flow from a validly made law.
2. Adjudication to be made by a legal authority sanctioned by law.
3. The final adjudication by a legal authority sanctioned by law is to be enforceable and binding.
4. Person deriving benefit from the adjudication to have a right to enforce it lawfully.

III

Informal Justice delivery system

Further the ratio of the above referred judgment of the Supreme court also settles as that the informal justice delivery system with an objective of bringing about amicable settlements between the parties have the weakness as it remains within the discretion of the persons concerned either to accept, ignore or reject, but the citizens may have such informal judicial systems so long the decisions of such systems do not infringed upon the right of individuals under law.
